SEMINAR OVERVIEW

In today's world, patient care is becoming more and more complex. As a result, it is important to expand our toolbox to help support them. The use of herbal medicinal products and supplements has increased tremendously over the past three decades with not less than 80% of people worldwide relying on them for some part of primary healthcare. Whether you are new or currently using herbs in your practice, by attending this seminar you will increase your confidence and knowledge of herbs and easily incorporate them safely into your practice and patient protocols.
