SEMINAR OVERVIEW

This seminar is geared towards practitioners who would like to broaden their knowledge on how nutrition plays a critical role in chiropractic care. The primary focus is to equip doctors with the necessary tools to enhance their patients' recovery from various musculoskeletal issues that are commonly seen in the office. Additionally, we will introduce testing techniques that can be utilized to determine the most effective treatment options to support the patient. Furthermore, we will delve into the study of viscerosomatic and somatic-visceral pathways and their impact on modern chiropractic patients.
